One of the best things I remember about the lazy, hazy days of childhood summer holidays, is relaxing in a hammock in the back yard and reading a good book. And you had to read quickly in those days as the book needed to be back to the Tavistock Public Library in two weeks or you might (rarely) get a five cent charge from the congenial head librarian Idella Schwartzentruber.

Did you know your church has a very well-stocked library? And there is no head librarian so you can keep the book as long as you need it.

In Knox Parlour there are two cupboards filled with books, and a children's library in the hall outside the office. Here is but a sampling of what they contain -

* Did you read Mitch Albom's book "Tuesdays with Morrie"? If you enjoyed this book, you will probably love Albom's "The Magic Strings of Frankie Presto", a story about the power of talent to change our lives.

* Chicken Soup for the Soul books always bring a smile and a laugh. Our library contains a number of them including "Messages from Heaven" and "Christian Family Soul".

* My favourite Christian author is Philip Yancey. He has the wonderful ability to ask the hard questions all of ask about our faith and give a thoughtful, easy-to-understand, from-the-heart answer. Yancey was raised in the southern U.S., in a church with all sorts of rules as to proper conduct but a church which wouldn't let a Black person in the door. So he has had quite a journey. Some of his books you can find in our library are "Prayer - Does It Make Any Difference?", "How My Faith Survived The Church", "What's So Amazing About Grace?", "The Jesus I Never Knew".

* If you are in the mood for a spellbinding and heartbreaking story, try "Do The Birds Still Sing In Hell?" by Horace Greasley. It is the true and incredible story of Greasley, a PoW during the Second World War. As a 20-year-old in 1939, he triumphed over adversity and defied one of the most brutal regimes in history.

And the list goes on.....

And if you have youngsters in the family there are dozens of wonderful books in our children's library. Something for everyone.

Even though Grace has an official "pastoral care committee", we are all members of this group. Our Grace family has always done a good job of looking out for one another and helping when needed. In a time of being without a full-time minister, this becomes even more important.

Keep up the good work Grace! Let's continue to be God's hands in this community.

Bev Neeb, on behalf of the Pastoral Care and Outreach Committee

During peaceful times Kharkiv has a population of 1.5 million people—larger than Calgary and just a bit smaller than Montreal. But since the Russian invasion in February, half of those people have fled the city for safer places. Those who are still in Kharkiv are the people who can't leave: because they have nowhere to go, because they're unable to travel, or because they're taking care of others who must stay.

Grocery stores in Kharkiv are closed, public transit has stopped running, there is no electricity or running water, and many roads and buildings are unsafe. Although the daily Russian air raids have ended there are still intermittent rocket attacks and people still spend time in shelters. Add to this the fact that most people who are still there live in poverty or are disabled, and it's clear that those who are left in Kharkiv are the ones least able to survive without help.

ACT Alliance member Hungarian Interchurch Aid has recently been able to bring relief shipments to volunteers in Kharkiv, like Sergei Babin. Babin and his team are providing those who are unable to leave the city with food and other items they need.

"We are grateful for any kind of help, as the people of Kharkiv have been suffering from this serious humanitarian crisis for many weeks now," he says.

Providing emergency food and hygiene kits (opens in a new tab) is one way your generous support of Mission & Service partners is helping support Ukrainian refugees.

Thank you for your compassion.
